

THE NEW YORK HERALD, SUNDAY, SEPTEMBER 17, 1922.

Long Branch Will Make Flower Show an Annual Affair

Success of Display of Elberon Horticultural Society Brings Desire for Repetition.

Special Dispatch to THE NEW YORK HERALD.

LONG BRANCH, N. J., Sept. 16.—So successful was the flower show of the Elberon Horticultural Society held this week that Manager William Bryan announced to-day it would be held next year on a larger scale. The summer folk made exhibits through their superintendents and several hundred visitors attended the show, which was staged in Monmouth Hall. Upward of a score of prizes were distributed. It is proposed to hold next year's exhibit late in August and to offer special prizes.

Mrs. Theodore Roosevelt and Vice-President Calvin Coolidge, it was announced to-day, have contributed books to the West Long Branch Library War Memorial in answer to requests made by Earl Hopper of the Community Club. The books will be placed in a specially built library and will not be used for general distribution. The library this week celebrated its fifth anniversary when Mrs. Leopold Stern of New York, with a summer home at the resort, was re-elected president; Miss Lotte Slovic, vice-president; Mrs. F. W. Van Note, secretary, and Mrs. George F. Van Huel, treasurer.

The Oceanic Fire Engine Company closed its annual fair and bazaar at the American Eagle Pile and Drum grounds to-day. The attraction was county wide, many summer folk taking in the side shows. The company celebrated its golden anniversary last March, and the fair was a success.

Revised plans of the new Community House at Sea Bright are in the hands of the building committee of the Sea Bright and Rumson Chamber of Commerce along the lines suggested by the Rev. J. Frederick Talcott of New York and Rumson. Originally it was planned to cost more than $10,000, but at the suggestion of Mr. Talcott the plans were enlarged. The new building, it is expected, will be built during the winter on the former Ottagio Hotel site, now owned by the hotel.

Talcott and J. Horace Harding have been added to the list of directors of the commerce board having charge of the construction of the Community House.

Dr. and Mrs. J. T. Welch have returned from an automobile trip through New York State.

Mr. and Mrs. Harry Van Brunt are spending a month at Newlyn, Sussex county.

Misses Marjorie Green and Ada Edwards have left to resume their studies at Syracuse University.

Adam H. Groel of Easton town is back from a visit to Maine.

George F. and Kenneth Johnston of Tulsa, Oklahoma, are making a stay with their mother, Mrs. Thomas F. Johnston, of Rockwell avenue.

Mrs. C. Ewing Patterson of Franklin avenue has returned from the Pocono Mountains.

Judge and Mrs. Henry S. Terhune have returned from a prolonged stay in the Adirondacks.

Mr. and Mrs. George W. Baxter are back from an automobile trip to Niagara Falls and Canada.

Edward Wagner has returned to New York after a stay in this city.

Many Shriners Are Seen on Atlantic City Boardwalk

Crescent Temple of Trenton Has Annual Outing and Ceremonial Session and Several Thousand Red Fezzed Brethren Assemble There.

Special Dispatch to THE NEW YORK HERALD.

ATLANTIC CITY, N. J., Sept. 16.

THE resort is crowded with members of the Ancient Arabic Order of the Nobles of the Mystic Shrine, or "Shriners," as they are more commonly known. There are several thousand of the red fezzed brethren here for the annual outing and ceremonial session of Crescent Temple of Trenton, and there are large representations from more than twenty temples in various parts of the country.

Meca Temple of New York, which has 500 representatives here, has its quarters at the Breakers, and when the Gothamites start to march down the Boardwalk they attract a great deal of attention.

Emancipation Centennial William H. McCandless of Honolulu is at the Traymore to attend the ceremonial session of the Shriners, which was held to-night on one of the piers.

Marksmen Compete.

Efforts are being made to have this city made the permanent range of the Grand American Handicap, which is made up of a gala assembly of the nation's best marksmen. The Grand American Handicap has been holding its annual shooting tournament here this week, with headquarters at the Traymore.

The range is a short distance from the city proper on land owned by the municipality.

Both the Pennsylvania and the Reading railroads announce that when the daylight saving period has ended they will extend train facilities to this resort. The roads, through local officials, state they will place in service throughout fall and winter several of the erstwhile summer trains.

There will be a brilliant assembly of military and naval officers at the Am-bassador on Monday, when the convention of the Military Order of the World War opens there. Secretary of War Weeks will make an address and invitations have been sent to Gen. Shing, Rear Admiral W. S. Sims, Major-General John F. O'Ryan and Brig-Gen. George H. Harris. The committee chairman include Brig-Gen. Frank T. Rhine, who was commanding officer at the port of Hoboken during the war; Brig-Gen. H. M. Lord, Brig-Gen. Charles J. Bailey, Major-Gen. W. C. Langfitt and Brig-Gen. S. Herbert.

The committee in charge of the convention includes Lieut.-Col. John Means Thompson, chairman; Capt. Robeson L. Johnston, chairman; Major Wilfred E. Broughton, Capt. George L. Darter, Lieut.-Col. Percy K. Hexter, Lieut.-Commander William H. McEwen, Jr., and Lieut. Leo J. Sheridan.

There are 12,000 members in the Military Order of the World War.

Recent Arrivals.

Arrivals from New York at the hotels recently included:

Marlborough-Blenheim—Mrs. B. N.

Much Entertaining Near Season's End at Lake Hopatcong

Harvest Dances and Closing Ball at Yacht Club Features of Week.

Special Dispatch to THE NEW YORK HERALD.

LAKE HOPATCONG, N. J., Sept. 16.

HOPATCONG is now regarded as one of the resorts where the cottagers will enjoy themselves for several weeks to come. There is no cessation of the social life here, and there have been so many of them that notwithstanding the fact that there are more and better accommodations than ever before, there has been considerable trouble in obtaining room.

A dinner party given by Mr. and Mrs. Wallace Hastings of Brooklyn was a pleasant diversion Wednesday evening. Tables were set upon the lawn on the bluff overlooking the lake.

Commodore and Mrs. William Matthews of New York, who have recently returned from a European tour, are spending the autumn months at their summer home here. Among their guests this week were Mr. and Mrs. Louis Marshall, Mr. and Mrs. Herbert Williamson, Mrs. George Webster and Miss Jennie Pratt.

Under the patronage of Mrs. William Larkin, Mrs. George Henderson, Mrs. Walter Kempson, Mrs. Arthur Young, Mrs. William Hollister, Mrs. Elliott Foster and Mrs. Raymond Tuttle will give a social next Wednesday in the Colony Club ballroom.

A pleasant launch party was arranged by Mrs. Elmer Hooper of New York on Wednesday night. Leaving the Casino dock, the launch carried the party to Nolan's Point, where supper was served. Those present were Mrs. Lillian Lockwood, Miss Helen Foster, Mrs. James Graham, Mrs. John Garrison, Mrs. Henry Stiles, Mrs. Wilton Hayes and Mrs. Josephine Heller.

A brilliant social feature of the week and the season was the German. Among the participants were Mrs. James Duff, Mrs. Marshall, Mr. and Mrs. James Duffy, Mr. and Mrs. James Larkin, Mr. and Mrs. Morris Pierson, Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Wilson, Mrs. Kenneth Wright, Mrs. Louis Lebowich, Mrs. Joseph Barlett, Mrs. Miss Josephine Russell, Miss Daisy Foster, Clarence Thorpe, Judson Thompson, Alexander Sutton and Frank Shipman.

The barn dance given by Mr. and Mrs. Howard Fischer of New York at their estate, Pine Cliff, on Thursday night, was among the chief events of the week.

Many New Yorkers summing here and members of the Lake Hopatcong Yacht Club had a merry time at the closing dance and entertainment of the club season last Saturday night. The club house was filled to its capacity with invited guests, who came from all parts of the lake and nearby resorts.

Among some of the guests were Mr. and Mrs. Stanley H. Webster, Mr. and Mrs. Roscoe C. Hulbert, Mr. and Mrs. William A. Lord, Mr. and Mrs. William J. Bisselle, Mr. and Mrs. Henry J. Parle, Mr. and Mrs. Henry Derby, Mr. and Mrs. Thomas H. Wise, Mr. and Mrs. Frederick W. Wenworth, Mr. and Mrs. Carlton Baker, Mr. and Mrs. Walter Walberg, Mr. and Mrs. Harry R. Walker, Harry Walker, Jr.; Dr. and Mrs. Wallace T. Van Winkle, Dr. and Mrs. George A. Van Wagonen, Mr. and Mrs. Marmaduke R. Yawger, Mr. and Mrs. Dewey G. Smith, Mr. and Mrs. T. Elliot Tolson and Mr. and Mrs. Charles Shipman.

Also Mr. and Mrs. George N. Seger, Mr. and Mrs. Richard D. Voorhis, Mr. and Mrs. W. Carry Stoddard, Mr. and Mrs. Landon Smith, Mr. and Mrs. J. Frederick Runyon, Clifford E. Shipman, Louis Schwab, Mr. and Mrs. Charles R. Rosevear, Mr. and Mrs. Theodore Rosevear.

Also Mr. and Mrs. Hamilton Pelz, Mr. and Mrs. Lewis C. Parker, Mr. and Mrs. Harry Ketcham, Mr. and Mrs. Hudson Maxim, Russell Pettit, Marshall Williams, Mr. and Mrs. Harry D. Northrop, Jr.; Mr. and Mrs. Peter Northrop, Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Newberry, Dr. and Mrs. Clifford Miller, Mr. and Mrs. Edward B. Meyer, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Mason, Edward Mauer, Walter Malowman, Mr. and Mrs. W. K. McLean, Mr. and Mrs. William W. Collins, Mr. and Mrs. Albert Merrell, Mr. and Mrs. Harold W. Updike, Mr.

and Mrs. David T. Lockwood, Mr. and Mrs. Harry T. Leaming, Mr. and Mrs. George L. Leonard and Mr. and Mrs. Henry Lee.

Others were Alfred Kinn, Mr. and Mrs. John B. Kingsley, Mr. and Mrs. John G. Keller, Mr. and Mrs. William C. Knudson, Mr. and Mrs. Theodore Knudson, Mr. and Mrs. John F. Jackson, Mr. and Mrs. Robert Leroy Hopson, Mr. and Mrs. George F. Hinrichs, Mr. and Mrs. Thomas J. Harris, Mr. and Mrs. Edward Tuttle, Mr. and Mrs. Edward Epstein, Mr. and Mrs. Irving Farrington, Mr. and Mrs. Henry Harrison Fuller, Mr. and Mrs. Theodore Gessler, Mr. and Mrs. Samuel Diber, Mr. and Mrs. Martin B. Jones, Mr. and Mrs. Richard L. Edwards, Mr. and Mrs. P. Bowman Bird, Mr. and Mrs. George P. Douglas, Mr. and Mrs. William D. Cloos, Mr. and Mrs. Roger W. Brett, Mr. and Mrs. Abel, Paul O. Abbe, Mr. and Mrs. W. Alanson Alexander, Mr. and Mrs. George Armstrong, Mr. and Mrs. Bernard Brady, Mr. and Mrs. William H. Boles, Mr. and Mrs. William Barron, William Bailey, Henry Altenbrandt and Frederick Buck.

of the Waldorf-Astoria last night, with Joseph Knecht and his Waldorf-Astoria dance orchestra in attendance throughout the evening.

Paul Whiteman entertained the visiting police chiefs at the Palais Royal on Friday night. There were several hundred detectives and heads of police departments of as many cities throughout the world attending the national police conference here in New York.

This week The Tavern, in West Forty-eighth street, opened under the ownership of Billy La Hiff. The new place served comes from a spring discovered in the basement of the restaurant. The main tavern room is decorated with hundreds of steel engravings, many of them signed by Presidents of the United States and famous men of letters.

Miss Glida Gray is planning a surprise for her fall guests at the Rendez-Vous and promises a dancing sensation in a setting more novel than the present Deauville Bathing Beach.

The Cafe Boulevard, at Broadway and Forty-fifth street, is again attracting managers with special luncheons and theater suppers.

Broadway now boasts a lady cabaret manager and owner. Miss Evelyn Stewart has taken over the Cafe Lavie and a review entitled "Smiles and Sunshine" is showing nightly. Lavie is at Broadway and Forty-eighth street and features French cuisine and after-theater suppers.

The appearance of John's Restaurant, in West Ninety-seventh street, has been

Notes of Hotels and Restaurants

The Plaza is now ready for one of the biggest social seasons of its record, the grill room, opened Friday, featuring tea, dinner and supper dances, with Joseph C. Smith and his orchestra. The terrace restaurant will open to-morrow.

The Orangerie of the Hotel Astor will be opened for dinner on Tuesday evening. This dining place, which has been in the hands of architects and decorators since early in June, while occupying the same location in the hotel, will present an entirely new appearance.

The Knickerbocker Grill, situated at the corner of Broadway and Forty-second street, will reopen to-night for the fall season. Special diversissements will be featured. The Woodmont Inn on Pelham Parkway is under the same management, and throughout the summer has had a large automobile attendance.

Edward Arlington, proprietor of the Claridge Hotel, has recently renamed his hotel "The Broadway Claridge," linking in one's mind the name of the hotel and its location. It is in full operation, while the alterations are being made on the ground floor.

This week saw the official closing of the Belleaire Towers, on top of the Hotel Belleaire, Broadway and Seventy-seventh street. This, the first season, has been very successful despite the inclement weather.

Dinner and supper dancing began in the famous old Bradley Martin ballroom greatly improved. The opening for the season was celebrated last Thursday. The management obtained Andrew Sherri's Review and an orchestra.

Next Wednesday evening the Rubino, Broadway's newest ballroom, will open and the management will carry out in the celebration the color scheme of the rainbow.

Beginning to-day the Strand Roof, at Broadway and Forty-eighth street, will effect a number of interior transformations. An entirely new review is planned to open next week.

This week The Tavern, in West Forty-eighth street, opened under the ownership of Billy La Hiff. The new place served comes from a spring discovered in the basement of the restaurant. The main tavern room is decorated with hundreds of steel engravings, many of them signed by Presidents of the United States and famous men of letters.

Miss Glida Gray is planning a surprise for her fall guests at the Rendez-Vous and promises a dancing sensation in a setting more novel than the present Deauville Bathing Beach.

The Cafe Boulevard, at Broadway and Forty-fifth street, is again attracting managers with special luncheons and theater suppers.

Broadway now boasts a lady cabaret manager and owner. Miss Evelyn Stewart has taken over the Cafe Lavie and a review entitled "Smiles and Sunshine" is showing nightly. Lavie is at Broadway and Forty-eighth street and features French cuisine and after-theater suppers.

The appearance of John's Restaurant, in West Ninety-seventh street, has been

Notes of Hotels and Restaurants

The Plaza is now ready for one of the biggest social seasons of its record, the grill room, opened Friday, featuring tea, dinner and supper dances, with Joseph C. Smith and his orchestra. The terrace restaurant will open to-morrow.

The Orangerie of the Hotel Astor will be opened for dinner on Tuesday evening. This dining place, which has been in the hands of architects and decorators since early in June, while occupying the same location in the hotel, will present an entirely new appearance.

The Knickerbocker Grill, situated at the corner of Broadway and Forty-second street, will reopen to-night for the fall season. Special diversissements will be featured. The Woodmont Inn on Pelham Parkway is under the same management, and throughout the summer has had a large automobile attendance.

Edward Arlington, proprietor of the Claridge Hotel, has recently renamed his hotel "The Broadway Claridge," linking in one's mind the name of the hotel and its location. It is in full operation, while the alterations are being made on the ground floor.

This week saw the official closing of the Belleaire Towers, on top of the Hotel Belleaire, Broadway and Seventy-seventh street. This, the first season, has been very successful despite the inclement weather.

Dinner and supper dancing began in the famous old Bradley Martin ballroom

greatly improved. The opening for the season was celebrated last Thursday. The management obtained Andrew Sherri's Review and an orchestra.

Next Wednesday evening the Rubino, Broadway's newest ballroom, will open and the management will carry out in the celebration the color scheme of the rainbow.

Beginning to-day the Strand Roof, at Broadway and Forty-eighth street, will effect a number of interior transformations. An entirely new review is planned to open next week.

This week The Tavern, in West Forty-eighth street, opened under the ownership of Billy La Hiff. The new place served comes from a spring discovered in the basement of the restaurant. The main tavern room is decorated with hundreds of steel engravings, many of them signed by Presidents of the United States and famous men of letters.

Miss Glida Gray is planning a surprise for her fall guests at the Rendez-Vous and promises a dancing sensation in a setting more novel than the present Deauville Bathing Beach.

The Cafe Boulevard, at Broadway and Forty-fifth street, is again attracting managers with special luncheons and theater suppers.

Broadway now boasts a lady cabaret manager and owner. Miss Evelyn Stewart has taken over the Cafe Lavie and a review entitled "Smiles and Sunshine" is showing nightly. Lavie is at Broadway and Forty-eighth street and features French cuisine and after-theater suppers.

The appearance of John's Restaurant, in West Ninety-seventh street, has been

Notes of Hotels and Restaurants

The Plaza is now ready for one of the biggest social seasons of its record, the grill room, opened Friday, featuring tea, dinner and supper dances, with Joseph C. Smith and his orchestra. The terrace restaurant will open to-morrow.

The Orangerie of the Hotel Astor will be opened for dinner on Tuesday evening. This dining place, which has been in the hands of architects and decorators since early in June, while occupying the same location in the hotel, will present an entirely new appearance.

The Knickerbocker Grill, situated at the corner of Broadway and Forty-second street, will reopen to-night for the fall season. Special diversissements will be featured. The Woodmont Inn on Pelham Parkway is under the same management, and throughout the summer has had a large automobile attendance.

Edward Arlington, proprietor of the Claridge Hotel, has recently renamed his hotel "The Broadway Claridge," linking in one's mind the name of the hotel and its location. It is in full operation, while the alterations are being made on the ground floor.

This week saw the official closing of the Belleaire Towers, on top of the Hotel Belleaire, Broadway and Seventy-seventh street. This, the first season, has been very successful despite the inclement weather.

Dinner and supper dancing began in the famous old Bradley Martin ballroom

greatly improved. The opening for the season was celebrated last Thursday. The management obtained Andrew Sherri's Review and an orchestra.

Next Wednesday evening the Rubino, Broadway's newest ballroom, will open and the management will carry out in the celebration the color scheme of the rainbow.

Beginning to-day the Strand Roof, at Broadway and Forty-eighth street, will effect a number of interior transformations. An entirely new review is planned to open next week.

This week The Tavern, in West Forty-eighth street, opened under the ownership of Billy La Hiff. The new place served comes from a spring discovered in the basement of the restaurant. The main tavern room is decorated with hundreds of steel engravings, many of them signed by Presidents of the United States and famous men of letters.

Miss Glida Gray is planning a surprise for her fall guests at the Rendez-Vous and promises a dancing sensation in a setting more novel than the present Deauville Bathing Beach.

The Cafe Boulevard, at Broadway and Forty-fifth street, is again attracting managers with special luncheons and theater suppers.

Broadway now boasts a lady cabaret manager and owner. Miss Evelyn Stewart has taken over the Cafe Lavie and a review entitled "Smiles and Sunshine" is showing nightly. Lavie is at Broadway and Forty-eighth street and features French cuisine and after-theater suppers.

The appearance of John's Restaurant, in West Ninety-seventh street, has been

Notes of Hotels and Restaurants

The Plaza is now ready for one of the biggest social seasons of its record, the grill room, opened Friday, featuring tea, dinner and supper dances, with Joseph C. Smith and his orchestra. The terrace restaurant will open to-morrow.

The Orangerie of the Hotel Astor will be opened for dinner on Tuesday evening. This dining place, which has been in the hands of architects and decorators since early in June, while occupying the same location in the hotel, will present an entirely new appearance.

The Knickerbocker Grill, situated at the corner of Broadway and Forty-second street, will reopen to-night for the fall season. Special diversissements will be featured. The Woodmont Inn on Pelham Parkway is under the same management, and throughout the summer has had a large automobile attendance.

Edward Arlington, proprietor of the Claridge Hotel, has recently renamed his hotel "The Broadway Claridge," linking in one's mind the name of the hotel and its location. It is in full operation, while the alterations are being made on the ground floor.

This week saw the official closing of the Belleaire Towers, on top of the Hotel Belleaire, Broadway and Seventy-seventh street. This, the first season, has been very successful despite the inclement weather.

Dinner and supper dancing began in the famous old Bradley Martin ballroom

greatly improved. The opening for the season was celebrated last Thursday. The management obtained Andrew Sherri's Review and an orchestra.

Next Wednesday evening the Rubino, Broadway's newest ballroom, will open and the management will carry out in the celebration the color scheme of the rainbow.

Beginning to-day the Strand Roof, at Broadway and Forty-eighth street, will effect a number of interior transformations. An entirely new review is planned to open next week.

This week The Tavern, in West Forty-eighth street, opened under the ownership of Billy La Hiff. The new place served comes from a spring discovered in the basement of the restaurant. The main tavern room is decorated with hundreds of steel engravings, many of them signed by Presidents of the United States and famous men of letters.

Miss Glida Gray is planning a surprise for her fall guests at the Rendez-Vous and promises a dancing sensation in a setting more novel than the present Deauville Bathing Beach.

The Cafe Boulevard, at Broadway and Forty-fifth street, is again attracting managers with special luncheons and theater suppers.

Broadway now boasts a lady cabaret manager and owner. Miss Evelyn Stewart has taken over the Cafe Lavie and a review entitled "Smiles and Sunshine" is showing nightly. Lavie is at Broadway and Forty-eighth street and features French cuisine and after-theater suppers.

The appearance of John's Restaurant, in West Ninety-seventh street, has been

Notes of Hotels and Restaurants

The Plaza is now ready for one of the biggest social seasons of its record, the grill room, opened Friday, featuring tea, dinner and supper dances, with Joseph C. Smith and his orchestra. The terrace restaurant will open to-morrow.

The Orangerie of the Hotel Astor will be opened for dinner on Tuesday evening. This dining place, which has been in the hands of architects and decorators since early in June, while occupying the same location in the hotel, will present an entirely new appearance.

The Knickerbocker Grill, situated at the corner of Broadway and Forty-second street, will reopen to-night for the fall season. Special diversissements will be featured. The Woodmont Inn on Pelham Parkway is under the same management, and throughout the summer has had a large automobile attendance.

Edward Arlington, proprietor of the Claridge Hotel, has recently renamed his hotel "The Broadway Claridge," linking in one's mind the name of the hotel and its location. It is in full operation, while the alterations are being made on the ground floor.

greatly improved. The opening for the season was celebrated last Thursday. The management obtained Andrew Sherri's Review and an orchestra.

Next Wednesday evening the Rubino, Broadway's newest ballroom, will open and the management will carry out in the celebration the color scheme of the rainbow.

Beginning to-day the Strand Roof, at Broadway and Forty-eighth street, will effect a number of interior transformations. An entirely new review is planned to open next week.

This week The Tavern, in West Forty-eighth street, opened under the ownership of Billy La Hiff. The new place served comes from a spring discovered in the basement of the restaurant. The main tavern room is decorated with hundreds of steel engravings, many of them signed by Presidents of the United States and famous men of letters.

Miss Glida Gray is planning a surprise for her fall guests at the Rendez-Vous and promises a dancing sensation in a setting more novel than the present Deauville Bathing Beach.

The Cafe Boulevard, at Broadway and Forty-fifth street, is again attracting managers with special luncheons and theater suppers.

Broadway now boasts a lady cabaret manager and owner. Miss Evelyn Stewart has taken over the Cafe Lavie and a review entitled "Smiles and Sunshine" is showing nightly. Lavie is at Broadway and Forty-eighth street and features French cuisine and after-theater suppers.

The appearance of John's Restaurant, in West Ninety-seventh street, has been

Notes of Hotels and Restaurants

The Plaza is now ready for one of the biggest social seasons of its record, the grill room, opened Friday, featuring tea, dinner and supper dances, with Joseph C. Smith and his orchestra. The terrace restaurant will open to-morrow.

The Orangerie of the Hotel Astor will be opened for dinner on Tuesday evening. This dining place, which has been in the hands of architects and decorators since early in June, while occupying the same location in the hotel, will present an entirely new appearance.

The Knickerbocker Grill, situated at the corner of Broadway and Forty-second street, will reopen to-night for the fall season. Special diversissements will be featured. The Woodmont Inn on Pelham Parkway is under the same management, and throughout the summer has had a large automobile attendance.

Edward Arlington, proprietor of the Claridge Hotel, has recently renamed his hotel "The Broadway Claridge," linking in one's mind the name of the hotel and its location. It is in full operation, while the alterations are being made on the ground floor.

This week saw the official closing of the Belleaire Towers, on top of the Hotel Belleaire, Broadway and Seventy-seventh street. This, the first season, has been very successful despite the inclement weather.

Dinner and supper dancing began in the famous old Bradley Martin ballroom

greatly improved. The opening for the season was celebrated last Thursday. The management obtained Andrew Sherri's Review and an orchestra.

Next Wednesday evening the Rubino, Broadway's newest ballroom, will open and the management will carry out in the celebration the color scheme of the rainbow.

Beginning to-day the Strand Roof, at Broadway and Forty-eighth street, will effect a number of interior transformations. An entirely new review is planned to open next week.

This week The Tavern, in West Forty-eighth street, opened under the ownership of Billy La Hiff. The new place served comes from a spring discovered in the basement of the restaurant. The main tavern room is decorated with hundreds of steel engravings, many of them signed by Presidents of the United States and famous men of letters.

Miss Glida Gray is planning a surprise for her fall guests at the Rendez-Vous and promises a dancing sensation in a setting more novel than the present Deauville Bathing Beach.

The Cafe Boulevard, at Broadway and Forty-fifth street, is again attracting managers with special luncheons and theater suppers.

Broadway now boasts a lady cabaret manager and owner. Miss Evelyn Stewart has taken over the Cafe Lavie and a review entitled "Smiles and Sunshine" is showing nightly. Lavie is at Broadway and Forty-eighth street and features French cuisine and after-theater suppers.

The appearance of John's Restaurant, in West Ninety-seventh street, has been

Notes of Hotels and Restaurants

The Plaza is now ready for one of the biggest social seasons of its record, the grill room, opened Friday, featuring tea, dinner and supper dances, with Joseph C. Smith and his orchestra. The terrace restaurant will open to-morrow.

The Orangerie of the Hotel Astor will be opened for dinner on Tuesday evening. This dining place, which has been in the hands of architects and decorators since early in June, while occupying the same location in the hotel, will present an entirely new appearance.

The Knickerbocker Grill, situated at the corner of Broadway and Forty-second street, will reopen to-night for the fall season. Special diversissements will be featured. The Woodmont Inn on Pelham Parkway is under the same management, and throughout the summer has had a large automobile attendance.

Edward Arlington, proprietor of the Claridge Hotel, has recently renamed his hotel "The Broadway Claridge," linking in one's mind the name of the hotel and its location. It is in full operation, while the alterations are being made on the ground floor.

This week saw the official closing of the Belleaire Towers, on top of the Hotel Belleaire, Broadway and Seventy-seventh street. This, the first season, has been very successful despite the inclement weather.

Dinner and supper dancing began in the famous old Bradley Martin ballroom greatly improved. The opening for the season was celebrated last Thursday. The management obtained Andrew Sherri's Review and an orchestra.